

In order to spend wisely, it's important to understand your wants and needs. A need is a good or service that's essential for survival. An example of a need would be groceries. A want is something that we desire to have but don't need to survive. Eating out would be considered a want.